

Wounds411.com Puts Peer-Reviewed Resources at Your Fingertips

By Deborah Warner, MS, ARNP, CWON
Warner Options, Inc.
Contributing Editor, Wounds411.com

Need help in developing documentation tools, quality improvement benchmarks, policies and procedures, or patient handouts? Looking for more information about wound care dressings and support surfaces? Do you want to find a pressure ulcer risk assessment tool that effectively predicts patient risk? Are you planning to develop a CEU wound care program, but do not have the time to do so? Are you finding it difficult to keep up to date on nutrition guidelines and interventions to facilitate wound healing?

If your answer is “yes” or maybe you are just curious, then check out www.Wounds411.com and see what Wounds411 has to offer. The site is packed with information for both health care professionals and patients, providing a multitude of resources to address the challenges of wound healing and pressure ulcer prevention. New content and links are added on a regular basis, and users are encouraged to share their wound, skin, and prevention resources.

Wounds411.com is a centralized, comprehensive, and user-friendly resource for health care professionals, offering FREE downloadable and customizable materials. The site features pressure ulcer, wound, and skin tear best practice guidelines and documentation tools. Materials for health care professional materials include a wound glossary, wound photography, conversation starters, and resource sections, as well as information on staff development, regulatory and quality improvement, risk management, topical dressings, and support surfaces. Patient care materials include patient handouts, pocket guides, patient education, and fact sheets.

Wounds411.com is offered by RD411.com, which also features resource centers for diabetes, toddlers and kids, and renal disease, in addition to hundreds of resources in the main RD411.com area. RD411.com serves the health care community with the mission of helping empower providers to do their jobs more efficiently and, ultimately, improve patient care. Access to FREE, customizable information is a unique and important aspect of the site.

Do not wait. Visit www.Wounds411.com or www.RD411.com today and sign up for a free newsletter, which provides updates to you as new materials are added. Spread the word to your nurses, dietitians, and health care colleagues.

If you have guidelines, resources, teaching points, or skin or wound images that you would like to contribute to Wounds411.com, contact Dr. Nancy Collins, PhD, RD, LD/N, RD411.com executive director, at RD411Office@gmail.com.

For information: www.RD411.com or
Contact: Dr. Nancy Collins, PhD, RD, LD/N
RD411Office@gmail.com
Phone: 954-349-2198